About the World Policy Conference

The World Policy Conference is an independent international conference devised as a link of reflection and exchange between leaders with a view to improving worldwide governance and uniting the efforts of all with the aim of serving general interest.

Launched in 2008 by the French Institute of International Relations (Ifri) on the initiative of its founder, Thierry de Montbrial, each year the World Policy Conference brings together a select group of participants (political figures, heads of international organizations, presidents of large companies, distinguished experts and journalists), together with Heads of state and government with the aim of developing a collective response to the challenges of our time.

The World Policy Conference is not aligned with any political, economic or national interests.

About the French Institute of International Relations (Ifri)

Created in 1979 and directed by Thierry de Montbrial, the French Institute of International Relations (Ifri) is the leading French, independent think-tank dedicated to analyzing international issues.

At the heart of a network of the biggest international think-tanks, Ifri's aim is to bring together leading protagonists and analysts of international life and encourage independent reflection on contemporary problems.

With its Brussels office opened in 2005, Ifri stands out as one of the few French think-tanks positioned at the heart of European debate. Today, Ifri is made up of almost 70 staff, about half of which are researchers.
