

Jean-Paul Guevara Ávila

Ambassador of the Plurinational State of Bolivia to France

Bolivian nationality, with studies in Political Science, International Relations, Economy, Demography, Sustainable Development, Environment and issues on Development in general.

Extensive professional experience in the field of international relations referring to governance, migration and international cooperation, consultancies developed in different international cooperation agencies and entities of the Plurinational State of Bolivia, on issues of decentralization, sustainable development, promotion to rural economic development, governance and others. Academic visiting professor at various universities in Bolivia and Mexico.

Publications: “Les Migrations boliviennes et la mondialisation”, Chapter in Genèse et enjeux des migrations internationales, CETRI, Editions Sylepse, Paris 2004; “Citizenship and Migration: Construction of citizenship among Bolivian migrants in Buenos Aires”, Institute of Social Economic Development, Buenos Aires, Argentina 2000; “Of Utopias and Future: Sustainable Development and Integration in Latin America”, Edited by LIDEMA & UDAPEX, La Paz, Bolivia 1996; “Gender, Women and Environment”, Chapters in the Roads of Equity book, Edited by the Pro-La Paz Foundation 1997; “Historic Reconstruction of the debate on Sustainable Development”, Chapter in the Original Indigenous Peoples book, Regional La Paz 1997; “Diagnosis of the Population Dynamic Evolution of the State of Mexico:1950-1994”, Edited by the Colegio Mexiquense A.C., Mexico 1995; “Fertility in the State of Mexico, an approach at municipal scale”, Edited by the Colegio Mexiquense A.C., Mexico 1994.

Fellow Member of the “Leadership for Environment and Development (LEAD)” Program; Founding Member of the College of Political Science of La Paz; Member of the International Society of Ecological Economics (ISEE); Member of the Sociedad Mexicana de Demografía (SOMEDE); Member of Workshop on Population and Environment, SOMEDE, Colegio de Mexico.

Currently, he is Ambassador of the Plurinational State of Bolivia to France, Former Head of the Graduate Program in “Public Policy and International Relations of the European Union”, at the Catholic University “San Pablo” of La Paz, Bolivia. He is also External Consultant on Population and Development issues at the Regional Office of UNFPA in Panama City. Former Director General of Bilateral Relations of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, of the Plurinational State of Bolivia, responsible within the frame of the Peoples Diplomacy, of deepening bilateral relations with America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Oceania, through out the consolidation of the mutual existing mechanisms.