

Salman Aldossary

Senior policy advisor and head of Public Policy Analysis at the Kingdom Economic and Energy Analysis Department of Saudi Aramco (SA)

Salman is a senior policy advisor and head of Public Policy Analysis at the Kingdom Economic and Energy Analysis Department of Saudi Aramco (SA), the Saudi national oil company. He works on policy research and analysis of the Saudi Arabian government's economic and energy policies. Prior to his current position, Salman was a senior advisor at the Ministry of Petroleum and Mineral Resources (MoPM), and lead negotiator on a number of issues on international energy and environmental policies at multiple UN organizations, as well as the G20. He also served as a board member at the Green Climate Fund.

Earlier in his career, Salman worked for MoPM Legal Department, and as Coordinator for WTO Due Diligence Team. Salman has an international work experience and worked for a number of years in Saudi Aramco affiliate companies in London, United Kingdom, and in Texas, United States.

Graduated with a BA in English, Salman also holds an Associate Degree from the Center for Advanced Legal Studies, Houston, United States; Masters of Business Administration from the University of Hull, United Kingdom; and Masters of Law in International Commercial Law from the University of Westminster, United Kingdom.