I started my career with Kuwait Institute for Scientific Research (KISR) in December 1977, at the Techno-Economics Division after graduating from Syracuse University majoring in Industrial Engineering and Operations Research (May 1977)
In January 1988 I became the Manger of the Economics Department. At KISR, I was part of the "Kuwait Economy Study" were I served both as a member of the research team and the project coordinator. The study developed a long term strategy for Kuwait that depends on engaging on Value Added Activities, bigger private sector role and less government ownership of the Business. I was also as the Managing Editor of "Economics Issues": A quarterly publication that was published jointly with Kuwait University. Some other studies that I participated in included different areas of importance to the Kuwaiti Economy: Energy and Environment, Housing and Construction, Electricity Pricing, and industrial Incentives, and economics feasibility studies.
In 1992, I was seconded to the "Public Authority for the Assessment of Compensation for Damages Resulting from the Iraqi Invasion" (PAAC), where I served as a Deputy Director General for Operations. I helped in setting up the operations of PACC. We were able to submit the first set of Claims in 1993 to the UN Commission.
In February 1994, I was hired by Kuwait Petroleum Corporation (KPC) to establish the newly created International Relations Department. The Department played (among other things) an important role in studying different oil production options for Kuwait, KPC international relations with various countries , OPEC policies, and the Development of the Oil Market.
In 1997, I joined The Securities Group Company, as an Assistant General Manager for Business Development and then moved on to Commercial Bank of Kuwait, where I served as Chairman and Managing Director.

During my career, I had the chance to be a part of the Kuwait's official delegation to IPCC, OPEC, and accompanied His Highness the Amir of Kuwait and the Prime Minister in Official Visits to South East Asia and Turkey. I also accompanied several oil Ministers as part of the official delegation in their official visits to various countries during my tenure at KPC.

I have been invited to speak in many conferences as Keynote Speaker. I also participated in many panel discussions in related to the Kuwaiti Economy. Topics ranged from Kuwait's long-term development strategy, energy and environment, industrial incentives, construction and housing, and the financial and banking sector.

I have published and/or participated in many research papers, studies, or reports.

I had the honor of serving as the Commander of the Kuwaiti Volunteers attached to the US Army's 82nd Airborne Division during Kuwait's Liberation War "Deseret Storm".

Born on October 1st, 1954, I have been blessed with Good Education (BS. in Industrial Engineering and Operations Research, Syracuse University 1977, MS 1982 and Engineers' Degree both degrees in - Engineering Economics Systems 1984, from Stanford University), and my family: Golnar, the mother of my two children, Deena: (BA 2006 University Of California –San Diageo, Masters in Public Policy '2011 Georgetown University), and Sammy: (UC Berkeley -2010).
