

ALI ASLAN

TV host and journalist, Deutsche Welle TV

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome back for session 9 on day two. We are back here with a very intriguing subject, which I would assume pertains to every one of you in your daily lives. Therefore, I am now happy to discuss the subject of 'Artificial intelligence and the future of human labour'. My name is Ali Aslan and I have the pleasure of introducing this splendid panel: the President of the Center for Global Development, and a former Director of the Middle East and Central Asia Department of the IMF, Masood Ahmed; Deputy Secretary General of the OECD, she also served as Prime Minister of Finland, Mari Kiviniemi; coming to us from Munich, the Vice President of Advanced Concepts at Airbus, Holger Mey; and last but not least, Group Executive Board Member at Capgemini, Patrick Nicolet.

We are trying to make this as lively as possible and we only have an hour to discuss this very interesting subject matter.
