

Christophe Bertossi

Director of the Centre for Migrations and Citizenship
French Institute for International Relations (Ifri)

Christophe Bertossi is the director of the Centre for Migrations and Citizenship at the French Institute for International Relations (Ifri) in Paris. He gained his PhD in Political Sciences in 2000 at the Institute of Political Studies in Aix-en-Provence (France) and his Habilitation at Sciences Po Paris in 2013.

He was a Marie Curie Research Fellow at the Centre for Research in Ethnic Relations, University of Warwick (UK) between 2001 and 2003, and a visiting fellow at the New York University (2009), the Institute for Advanced Studies-Collegium in Lyon (2010), and the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Ethnic and Religious Diversity (2015). He has coordinated several international collaborative research projects on citizenship and ethnicity, notably with the Washington University in St-Louis, the American Sociological Association, the Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation in Lisbon, and the Social Science Research Council (SSRC).

His publications notably include: Les frontières de la citoyenneté en Europe : nationalité, résidence, appartenance (L'Harmattan, 2001); European Anti-Discrimination and the Politics of Citizenship: France and Britain (Palgrave, 2007); Les couleurs du drapeau: les militaires issus de l'immigration (Robert Laffont, 2007, avec C. Wihtol de Wenden); As Cruzadas da Integração na Europa (Principia, 2012); European States and their Muslim Citizens: How institutions Shape Perceptions and Boundaries (Cambridge University Press, 2013, with John Bowen, Jan Willem Duyvendak, and Mona Lena Krook), La citoyenneté à la française. Valeurs et réalités (Editions du CNRS, 2016).