

Gruia Stoica

President of Grampet Group

Gruia Stoica is President of Grampet Group, the most important Central and East-European actor in the field of railway transport and logistics services. Gruia Stoica established Grampet Group in 2000, seeking from the beginning the ambitious goal of creating a railway link through the entire Europe. In less than 12 years, he managed to fulfill his goal. Grampet Group is present in 9 European countries: Germany, Austria, Hungary, Serbia, Montenegro, Bulgaria, Romania, Moldavia and Ukraine, thus managing to connect the North Sea to the Black Sea and the Adriatic Sea, establishing a real iron backbone that stretches throughout the whole of Europe. Through the future development projects, the President of Grampet Group wishes to connect the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean, through the North Sea and the East China Sea. As recognition of his strategic activity and visionary development, in September 2012, Gruia Stoica was appointed as President of the Romania-Kazakhstan Business Council. Gruia Stoica started business in 1990, when he opened his first company. Since 1990 until now he held only top management positions, being responsible for the strategic development of his company. Gruia Stoica has graduated from the Polytechnic University of Bucharest, having earned a Master degree in Fine structure of metallic materials research. His academic career is completed by graduating from high renowned learning institutions, such as: the National Defense College (Strategic leadership in the field of national security - course), Carol I National Defense University also in Bucharest (Security and governance - course) and the Europe of Tomorrow Academic Society (Statehood and state thinking - course).
