

Mohamed Ait-Kadi

President of the General Council of Agricultural Development

Mohamed Ait-Kadi is currently President of the General Council of Agricultural Development. The Council is a high-level policy think tank of the Ministry of Agriculture, Fishery, Rural Development and Forestry in Morocco where Mohamed served as secretary general. Previously, as Director General of the Irrigation Department, he was in charge of the development and implementation of the National Irrigation Program. He was the chief agricultural negotiator in the free trade agreement between Morocco and the United States. Mohamed was chair of the Global Water Partnership Technical Committee. He was a governor and founding member of the World Water Council, and president of the organizing committee of the first World Water Forum held in Marrakech in 1997. He is honorary vice-president of the International Commission on Irrigation and Drainage (ICID). Mohamed is a member of the Hassan II Academy of Sciences and Technology. He served as a member of the CGIAR Consortium Board and the Board of Advisors of the World Agricultural Forum. He is a professor at the Institute of Agronomy and Veterinary Medicine Hassan II, Rabat. He has authored numerous publications in the fields of irrigation, water management, and agriculture and rural development.