

Jacques Beltran

Vice President, Public Sector, Dassault Systèmes

He started his career as research fellow at the French Institute of International Relations (IFRI), focusing on European security and transatlantic relations.

In 2003, he joined EADS-AIRBUS as senior manager in charge of international development.

In 2005, he was appointed diplomatic advisor to the French Minister of Transport and Infrastructure, D. Perben.

From 2007 to 2015 he worked for Alstom group, in the energy and rail transportation sector, in different capacities : VP public affairs, Senior VP Asia-Pacific, Senio VP Europe-CIS and finally Head of sales and marketing for Alstom transport France.

Back to the public sector in 2016, he joined the regional council of Paris Region as deputy director general in charge of European affairs, international cooperation & tourism, and special advisor to the President Valerie Pécresse.

In September 2019, he joined Dassault Systèmes as Vice President in charge of the worldwide development of the public sector business.

He studied at Sciences Po Paris, Saint-Cyr and INSEAD (advanced management program). He is a member of the young global leaders program of the World Economic Forum.