

Taeho Bark

Président du Lee&Ko Global Commerce Institute

Taeho BARK is currently President of the Global Commerce Institute of Lee&Ko, a leading global law firm in Korea, Vice President of Seoul Forum for International Affairs (SFIA), Chairman of the Korean Committee of the Trilateral Commission and Professor Emeritus (former professor and Dean) of the Graduate School of International Studies (GSIS) at Seoul National University. Prof. Bark has participated in the Task Force on Global Capitalism in Transition of the Trilateral Commission as an Asia-Pacific member.

Professor Bark served Minister for Trade of the Korean government (from December 2011 until March 2013). In spring 2013, Dr Bark was in the race for the Director-General position of the WTO as the Korean candidate. He also served the Chairman of the International Trade Commission of the Korean Government. Prior to coming to Seoul National University, Professor Bark taught as an assistant economics professor at Georgetown University, worked as a senior research fellow of the Korea Development Institute (KDI) and served the Vice President of the Korea Institute for International Economic Policy (KIEP). During 2000-2002, Dr. Bark worked as Chair of the Investment Expert Group (IEG) of Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC).

He taught at Sciences Po, Stanford University and the University of Washington as a visiting professor. In addition, he was a visiting scholar at the IMF and consulted for the World Bank and the ADB. He has authored books and articles on international trade, foreign direct investment and the Korean economy.

He was awarded “the Order of Service Merit, Yellow Stripes” (second highest grade) by the Korean government. Professor Bark received his BA from Seoul National University and Ph.D. in economics from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.